The Journal of this morning publishes a long communication from an intelligent terman gentleman, recently from Halifax, giving an expuse of the progress of enlistments to the Foreign Legion in the United States. He states that the armont paid by the British Covernment up to the middle or July was $200,000, and the number of recruits only about 500. The writer state that the government has not red munished the recenting system in the United States, but, on the contrary, has a large number of agents employed for the coming winter, who are expected to indive many poor working-men to visit Lanada, under primise of employment.
